POLITICS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Further Particulars of the Dynamite Explosion at Quebec—The Franco-Chinese War—Bismarck and Ferry—Etc

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Morning papers contain the following interesting cable specials from European capitals

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

Lord Salisbury, leader of the conservative party, made a notable speech at Kelso this evening. He severely attacked the government scheme for redistribution of the seats in the house of commons. He said it was a scheme to give undue preponderance to boroughs safe to give liberal majorities, in order to wipe out conservative majorities in other counties. The liberals ask the conservatives to pass an obnoxious franchise bill, and as an inducement promise to pass the redistribution bill, which appears to be equally obnoxious. They ask the tories to give them a bank check, and all they promise in return is an unsigned check. Lord Salisbury next alluded to the offer of Canada to assist Cape Colony in its troubles with the Boers by sending men and money. This, he said, was a noble act on the part of Canada, but was a withering rebuke to the English government for its shameful neglect of England's imperial duties. The speech was bellicose throughout, and affords very little comfort to those who have been persistently predicting a compromise between the ministry and the tory leader

The redistribution scheme continues to be the all-engrossing topic of discussion among politicians. There are endless quibbles over the details of the proposed plan, but the general belief is that the scheme is practicable. Columns of comment and opinions upon the scheme are daily published, in nearly every newspaper in London. The silence of the Times, the Chronicle, the Post and the News is much commented on, but is the result of a compact to ignore the whole subject, which grew out of chagrin at being beaten by the Standard. The government is still making strenuous efforts to ascertain who purloined a copy from the queen's printers, and furnished it to the Standard. Several detectives are engaged upon the case, and a heavy reward is offered, but the culprit has not been discovered.

AN AMUSING HOAX.

The site for the proposed American exhibition in London in 1886 has not been determined upon. A curious episode in connection with American exhibitions is reported from Dungarvan, county Wexford. At the last meeting of the town council the clerk submitted a letter, signed Joseph Rogers, special agent of the world's fair and cotton centennial exhibition at New Orleans, Louisiana, U S A. and dated from the Gresham hotel, Dublin. Rogers stated that he had been deputed by the government of the United States to obtain good photographs or oil paintings of all European celebrities, for the art department of the exhibition. He recognized the fact that such a collection would be incomplete without the picture of such an eminent body as the Dungarvan town council, and therefore begged to know if they would do him the honor of being photographed in a group, at his expense.

Most of the members promptly and cordially agreed to become pictorially famous, through the means offered by Rogers, but one skeptic suggested doubt as to the existence of that gentleman. The skeptical member was promptly sat upon by Councillor Scanlon, in a speech full of Irish vigor and eloquence. Scanlon said it made him indignant to listen to vilification of a gentleman who expressed such a high appreciation of the worth of their body, and courteously offered to extend their fame. Scanlon knew Dungarvan had made a great stir in the world, and it was not surprising that the reputation of the Dungarvan corporation had reached New Orleans. Americans, he said, always have a keen eye to business, and there is no doubt that they would make a good thing out of it by the sale of hundreds of copies of the picture of the Dungarvan councillors.

After some further debate the letter was referred to a committee. The police subsequently learned that Rogers is a myth and the letter a hoax.

BISMARCK AND FERRY

While there are still many sources of friction between Germany and France, the prime ministers of those countries are oddly enough indulging in effusive mutual admiration. Ferry, when he received Count Herbert Bismarck the other day, heaped upon him assurances of the distinguished consideration which he entertained for his father. The latter has now returned the compliment with interest. In an interview with a leading diplomat at Berlin the rugged old chancellor assured the diplomat that he had a very high opinion of the French premier, and continued as follows: "Ferry is one Frenchman with whom it is possible to negotiate, which is a thing one can take without fear of grasping something concealed. Ferry is a steady man, like a German, without prudence and without special arts of oratory. He is resolute, strong and capable. He has proved by his own force of character that the French are easily governed, if you will ignore their foibles. Don't combat with them; don't prohibit them; close your eyes to them, and go on with the work of government, as though they did not exist. The trouble with the French is they have been badly governed, and in fact no people on earth obey better than the French, if they feel a strong hand."

A NEW ORDER OF PURCHASING SUPPLIES

Orders have been issued by the German war office to the commissariat of the German army to the effect that in all future purchases of grain and horse provender purchases must be made directly from the producer. Middlemen are to be strictly eschewed and not permitted to file tenders for contract, or in any manner to interfere between the landowner and the commissary department. Farmers throughout Germany are highly elated at the prospect of being rid of the brokers, who formerly ground them to starvation figures, and the probability of getting fair prices for their produce. The chief sufferers by the inauguration of the new method of purchasing military stores will be a large number of Jewish usurers, who will lose many million marks which yearly have come into their possession as handlers of government contracts

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Several members of the British association who have returned from their visit to Canada and the United States complain of the niggardly conduct of the Philadelphians into whose hands they fell while visiting the American scientists. They say that publicans, cab-drivers and others took outrageous advantage of their innocence, and swindled them unmercifully in hotel and other charges. On the other hand, Professor Goldwin Smith writes indignantly to a Toronto newspaper regarding the personnel of the British scientific excursion party. He alleges that it was composed largely of Manchester bagmen, who came to America to sell goods for firms they represent and were really conducting trade, under cover of philosophy.

A LADY LEAPS TO DEATH

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12.—Mrs Louise Mallory, née Phelps, wife of G. Mallory of Mystic, Conn., sister of C H Mallory, was drowned this forenoon in Lake Pontchartrain. She leaped from the Northeastern train, when near Slidell. The party were on their way to the city, to spend the winter here, the husband being commissioner from Connecticut to the world's exposition and cotton centennial.

THE ROYAL STEAMER RACE

There is little betting on the Cunard [illegible] race now in progress between the steamers Oregon and America, except at Liverpool. The [illegible] favor the Oregon, [illegible] is more strongly built than the America, and it [illegible] the latter will stand the storms which must be expected during a run across the Atlantic this season.

ENGLAND'S COLONIAL TROUBLES

News from Egypt is scandalously sparse. Wolseley is carrying out a military censorship of dispatches with such strictness as to suggest difficulties and gloomier foreboding than perhaps should exist. The latest rumor is that the camel corps is inoperative, because the very necessary supply of saddles was forgotten. The newspapers talk of sending correspondents to points where they can see and tell the whole truth without permit of the commander in chief. In the meanwhile public opinion has become so excited on the aggressiveness of the Boers that the ministry has been forced to within a short interval of war. If the Boers had not under some judicious private pressure from London, made some retreat, a conflict would have been inevitable.

LONDON NOTES

The fund being collected in England for the purpose of assisting Henry George in his proposed lecturing tour on land nationalization, is increasing slowly. It is hoped by friends of George's theories that the amount will soon reach the sum required.

Mlle Emma Nevada is to be the leading singer at the famous Norwich musical festival, which begins Tuesday. It is stated that she is considering a tempting offer by Mapleson of an engagement for a tour of the United States, after the general election.

PHILANTHROPIC LONDON

The recent discussion of over-pressure in the public schools is bearing some good fruit, and philanthropic society, proceeding on the assumption that the malady is not over education but under feeding, has established penny dinners in several schools, and, curiously enough, succeeded in making them self-supporting. Another charitable invention is the establishment of a home for female inebriates, into which women of the working classes are admitted, at the low tariff of eight shillings.

THE MOROCCO OUTRAGES

The outrages on Jews in Morocco have been stopped, and the wicked governor punished, in consequence of the interference of the Italian minister. The stories told of inhumanity towards Jews are almost incredible. An aged chief rabbi was whipped and pilloried in the scorching sun, because he refused to draw false deeds of debt against Jews, in favor of the governor. Another rabbi was dragged through the streets by the hair and brutally flogged.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION

Alfred Carpenter, an enthusiastic teetotaler, has been delivering new readings in ancient history, according to which Alexander the Great was cut short by drink at 32, and the Romans were able to withstand the invasion by the Goths and the Vandals, owing to the intemperance of their military leaders. The Critic suggests that the supremacy of modern Germans, in drinking beer and bearing arms, scarcely accords with the new revelation.

STANLEY THE EXPLORER.

Henry M Stanley is to deliver a series of lectures at Manchester, under the auspices of the most eminent men of the city, on the commerce of Africa. Stanley says he is hopeful that the West African conference next month will result in the recognition of the international African association by the powers. This he believes to be the easiest and best solution of the various problems, which may become very troublesome if not now settled.

THE BOURBONS.

Evidence multiplies that all branches of the Bourbons intend to rally around the count of Paris. The grand duke of Tuscany, who will soon visit him, is a brother-in-law of Don Carlos, and goes to proffer the latter's friendly overtures. Many Bonapartists are looking in the same direction.

CANADA

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE EXPLOSION AT QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Oct. 12.—The troops placed around the parliament building last night were withdrawn this morning and a strong guard of police established. No person was allowed to approach the building or pass in close proximity during the night, and to-day a most vigorous watch is kept. The excitement is unabated. Upwards of 40,000 persons visited the scene to-day. All sorts of rumors are in circulation to-day, one theory being that four strangers, who had lately been employed there as workmen, had been acting in a most suspicious manner, and that one of them always remained behind in turns while the other three went to dinner. A prominent civil service employe states that he overheard part of a conversation carried on in the building between three or four men, who stated that they would soon have their grievances set to right. There is no end to rumors. The chief of police Colonel Vohl to-night says he discovered nothing yesterday, but thought they had a positive clew to the perpetrators. Upon inspection to-day of the damage the hole made by the first explosion is found to be much larger than reported yesterday. The damage done by the second explosion is less conspicuous, but the cost of setting to right will involve much more money. It is now felt that the entire wall will have to be taken down, on the northeastern portion of the house, involving a cost of $25,000. It is thought contractor Charlebois will add another $1000 reward to that already offered by the government, for information of the arrest of the parties implicated. The building will not now be completed in time to permit the government to hold sessions there this year.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE WAR

CHINA'S STORY ABOUT THE [illegible]

[illegible], Oct. 1[illegible].—A note is published [illegible] death from the Chinese legation replying to the French charges regarding the Tien Tsin treaty. It points out that Captain Fournier fails to state whether he consulted the erasures in that treaty or not. The note is attached to the treaty, and it is said in Li Hung's handwriting. It states that Captain Fournier himself erased two paragraphs in the treaty.

CHINA'S PROPOSITION

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph believes that China a week ago made the following proposition to Premier Ferry, through the American government. The Chinese forces to withdraw from Tonquin, Kelung to be temporarily occupied by the French, at the conclusion of a six months' armistice, the dispute being meanwhile settled by the arbitration of America. The correspondent adds that Ferry objected to the last suggestion, asking why China could not make the proposition directly to him.

RIOT AT OENCHOW

LONDON, Oct 12.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Times reports a riot at Oenchow October 5, when a mob burned the missionaries' houses and the custom house. The records of the English consulate were not hurt. No lives were lost and quiet is restored.

ITALY.

NOTES FROM ROME.

ROME, Oct 12.—Catania was visited by another cyclone yesterday. Thirty persons were killed. King Humbert has sent £400 for the relief of the sufferers.

Reports to-day from the cholera infected districts of Italy show 294 fresh cases and 13[illegible] deaths, including 115 fresh cases and 51 deaths at Naples.

NOTES FROM NAPLES.

NAPLES, Oct. 12.—Gerratt, president of the tribunal of commerce, died to-day from cholera.

The cardinal of San Felice has sent the gold cross presented him by the pope to assist sufferers in Catania.

IRELAND

LABOR LEAGUE ORGANIZED

CORK, Oct 12.—A number of labor delegates to-day inaugurated the South Ireland labor league, to be devoted exclusively to the interests of laborers. It is altogether independent of the Irish national league. Henry Villiers Stuart, member of parliament for Waterford county, was elected president. The members are pledged to support only candidates favoring the franchise bill, which they believe will tend to remove the grievances of laborers, and also to stand from outrages, the hostility of [illegible] the Parnellite party and the [illegible]

FERRY TALKS FRANKLY

PARIS, Oct 12.—Ferry, in the course of a frank conversation with friends in his own political circle, said he expected the coming session of the chambers to be a brisk one, and that there would be much defensive work for the ministers, who were needing severe party discipline. He denied that France was on bad terms with England, but said France was prepared to make arrangements out of every sort of wood, to fire at England, unless she gave France satisfaction in Egypt. He declared that he had no exact understanding with Bismarck, but that if he could turn an enemy into an ally, even at the cost of a heavy sacrifice of amour propre, he would do so.

GERMANY

GREAT EXCITEMENT OVER THE ELECTIONS

BERLIN, Oct 12.—The election agitation is increasing. A meeting to have been addressed by Professor Virchow was dissolved by the authorities, on account of an error in the formal notice of the meeting sent to the police. Influential conservative groups are agitating against Stoecker and Wagner, anti-Jewish leaders. Socialist riots have occurred at Brandenburg. A mob tore up the pavement and attacked the police. The military was called out. Several persons were wounded on both sides, and many arrests were made.

THE SOUDAN.

EL MAHDI MARCHING ON DONGOLA

LONDON, Oct 12.—A dispatch from Dongola says two of the Mudir's spies from Khartoum via Kordofan, report that El Mahdi is sending two large armies to attack Dongola. One is coming across the desert, and the other along the Nile.

SPAIN

THE EPIDEMIC ENDED

MADRID, Oct. 12.—The Official Gazette announces that the cholera epidemic has ended and bulletins are stopped. The queen of Portugal has sent $2000 to Naples, and Humbert $1000 to Genoa, for the relief of sufferers.

BAPTIST CONVENTION.

First Annual Session of Representatives of this Religious Denomination from that Section of the Northwest

The Baptist convention for Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho held its first annual session in the First Baptist church of Colfax, beginning at 11 o'clock on Thursday, Oct. 9th. The convention was preceded by a devotional meeting of one hour, led by Rev J H Teale, of Medical Lake.

The convention was called to order promptly by Rev W H Carmichael, of Cheney. The scriptures were read and prayers offered by Rev Geo Campbell, of Spangle. The moderator addressed the convention in words of cheer and appointed a committee of enrollment, consisting of Rev J J Baker, of Spokane, and Rev J H Teale, of Medical Lake.

The minutes of the last meeting, held in January last, at which time the convention was organized, were read by the secretary, Rev Geo Campbell. Pending the enrollment adjournment was made until 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION

At the opening of the afternoon session devotional exercises were led by Rev Joseph Beaven of Moscow, for thirty minutes. Business was resumed at 2:30, Rev W. H. Carmichael in the chair. The enrollment having been completed, the election of officers occurred, Rev W H Carmichael president, Rev. A. B. Banks of Walla Walla, vice president, Rev. Geo Campbell, secretary, Rev J F Baker, treasurer.

The courtesies of the convention were extended to Rev J Cairnes of Winfield, Kan., and Rev H F Colleigh of Walla Walla, general missionary for eastern Oregon and Washington. These brethren were introduced to the convention and each addressed the body. Rev Mr Cairnes said that the last year in Kansas was a year of extensive revivals among the Baptist churches and that in the last six years great progress had been made. He thought the progress of the cause of Christ and temperance in Kansas was very rapid and hopeful. He congratulated the convention on having so great and promising a field of operations manned by a devoted class of workers. His visits had been extended somewhat over the country, and he had been pleased with both the country and the people, and greatly pleased with the self-denying efforts of the people of God in planting churches and schools, and in the general character of improvements falling under his observation.

Rev Mr Colleigh said that he had never before wished he was a Baptist, but after hearing the address of Brother Cairnes and witnessing the spirit prevailing in this convention, he thought he could make a fair worse wish. He was glad to look over denominational lines and see what others who love the Lord Jesus Christ were doing to lead the perishing to Christ. He believed great things were being and could be achieved by Christian denominations on the north Pacific coast. He congratulated the Baptists on the success attending their work, and bade them God-speed.

The committee on programme appointed last year made their report, which was adopted.

The president appointed the following committee:

Committee on nominations—George Campbell, Nelson Davis and J. H. Teale.

Committee on next session—A. B. Banks, Theo Smith, J. C. Edmundson.

Committee on constitution and by-laws—E. R. Trimble, J. J. Baker and S. W. Beaven.

Committee on resolutions—Joseph Beaven and J. C. Lloyd.

Committee on order of business—J. C. Baker, A. B. Banks and J. H. Teale.

General business was then taken up, and the convention ordered an "Annual" printed which should cover the history of the convention and order of its work from the date of its organization. The secretary was ordered to prepare the minutes for publication, and a committee appointed to print and distribute the Annual. The fund for publishing the same was provided for, when the convention adjourned with prayer by Rev J H Teale.

EVENING SESSION

At 7 o'clock devotional exercises were held by Rev. J. C. Baker of Salem.

At 7:30 the annual sermon was preached by Rev A. B. Banks of Walla Walla. The text was selected from Acts 13, 39. "And by Him all that believe are justified from all things." The sermon was listened to with wrapt attention and was full of biblical truth and eloquent expression.

At the close of the sermon Rev S W Beaven, general missionary for the convention, presented his report, the essential features of which will be furnished in to-morrow's letter. Pending the adoption of this report an address was delivered by Mr Beaven, after which the report was adopted.

Anything to Beat Blaine

Unitarian Review for September

The cry "Anything to beat Blaine" is the final resort of personal spite or partisanship rather than judgment or reliance on any principles. Indeed it is hardly too severe to say that the substance of the whole campaign arguments of the independents might be put in one sentence: "Principles are nothing, morals are nothing, anything to beat Blaine," and this includes, of course, a resort to any of the political methods of intrigue, bribery, bargain and sale which we have been so long denouncing.

BEFORE THE BATTLE.

Republicans Confident of a Good Majority in Ohio.

MORE OF CLEVELAND'S RECORD

Fourteen Buffalo Ministers Publish a Damaging Card—The Political Situation in California—Etc

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Herald to-morrow will contain estimated majorities from every county in the state except Hamilton county, in which Cincinnati is situated, showing a net republican majority of about 19,000. This allows for a prohibition vote not much larger than last year. It is possible that this vote may reduce the republican majority, and there may be an increase in the democratic vote, through extensive frauds that have been planned. At the present moment the outlook is for a republican majority of not less than 10,000, and possibly 25,000. The vote will be very large.

FROM CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Extremists on the democratic side claim Hamilton county by 5000, while the same class on the republican side claim it by 2500. Cooler-headed men in both parties think Hamilton county will be close, and that probably a mixed ticket will be elected.

Speaking about the outlook for Ohio, in comparison with that of the corresponding time last year, Judge Foraker, republican candidate for governor in 1883, who has stumped the state, says it is much more favorable to the republican cause. "Why, we have all the wool growers, who said they were ashamed for voting against me last year, and announced their intention to vote for General Robinson."

General Noyes, ex-minister to France has returned from a stumping tour of the Ohio valley. He says: "I have no great hopes of Hamilton county, but the state does not and never has depended on it. There is no discouragement in the prospect, but I tell you one thing, the river counties will do better than the reserve, but the democrats are putting up their money. At Gallipolis a republican told me that money had struck this county in bulk. One thing is certain —thousands of democrats in Ohio will vote for Blaine who may not vote for Robinson. I do not see why Blaine's majority should not be 25,000. As it is, I think the state will go 10,000 next Tuesday for the republicans. The tariff issue has been the king-pin of the campaign."

CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES.

COLUMBUS, Oct 12.—The democratic state central committee claim the state by 8000. The republican committee say they will have a republican majority of 10,000.

CLEVELAND'S BAD RECORD.

What the Ministers of Buffalo Say of his Immoralities Past and Present.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct 12.—[Special.]—Fourteen prominent clergymen of this city have been looking up Cleveland's record. They assert that he has continued his alleged misconduct up to the present time. Witnesses, whom they claim to be reliable men and women told the most astounding and painful stories about the governor's clandestine relations with certain women. The ministers, however, refuse to reveal the names or tell what the witnesses said. Members of the Buffalo association of ministers have prepared the following circular. It is to be sent to a legion of anxious inquirers

BUFFALO, N Y, Oct. 11, 1884

We are in receipt of a large number of letters from all parts of the country, making inquiries concerning the moral character of one of the nominees for the presidential office, and also in many cases asking whether it is true, as was quite widely published, that during his candidacy for the governorship of this state he was generally indorsed by ministers of this city. It is true that during his candidacy for the governorship Cleveland did receive, largely, the confidence of clergymen. Acting in their individual capacity, in ignorance of the facts concerning his private life and believing that he gave promise of a pure and wise administration many of them gave him their cordial support. But while thus referring to the truth of the past it is but fair and right for us to add that since that time evidence has been laid before us which fairly and, as we believe, unanswerably impeaches not only the past but also the more recent morality of Cleveland, as respects his temperance and chastity. We willingly excuse ourselves from the unpleasant task of entering into details, which, however, are in our possession, and not as mere vague rumor, but in the form of positive statements by witnesses cognizant of that to which they testify.

POLITICS IN CALIFORNIA

A Review of the Situation in San Francisco and the Country

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The past week has been a dull one in the city. The campaign clubs having lent a part of their forces almost every night to one or another of the interior cities, Stockton, Sacramento, San Jose and several smaller places have been visited by uniform clubs of both parties during the week. There have been meetings in the city each night, the most notable being of Germans, in the interests of the democrats, on Tuesday evening, and of Irishmen, in the republican interest, on Friday night. Both meetings were large, but attendance was of such a general character that it required constant reiteration on the part of the speakers to establish a distinctive character. There is a good deal of buncombe in these so-called German and Irish meetings. They are precisely like other political meetings, in purpose and character of attendance, and special designation is, for the most part, mere pretense. At the German democratic meeting Tuesday night one of the speakers attempted to address his audience in the German tongue. He was promptly hissed into silence and told to "give it to us in American."

The Ohio contest attracts much attention here

THE SENATORIAL CONTEST

The various congressional candidates are hard at work, but little popular interest is expressed. The senatorial outlook, uncertain as it is for either party, is more talked about by the democrats, who presumably will have the legislature here. The three prominent candidates are Senator Farley, Judge Wallace and George Hearst. The former stands for the railroad interest, and will undoubtedly have the benefit of all the forces which Huntington, Crocker et al. can bring to bear. As their power in the face of popular opposition is well known, Farley is considered to have a fair show of success, in the probable event of democratic control of the legislature. The senator arrived from Washington five days ago, and he will not take part in the canvass. It is supposed that Wallace and Hearst have pooled their issues, and are working in harmony as against Farley. It is not thought, however, that this association can long survive. Hearst is in bad health, and Wallace is stumping the state for the national ticket. There are rumors that Hearst has lately lost a great deal of money, and that he is in serious financial troubles. The sale of his fine house in this city last week to R. B. Thompson was a necessity, in order to pay off mortgages upon it. If it be true that Hearst is in a bad way financially he stands no chance for the senatorship. His standing is simply that of a "moneyed man," and without a fortune he would sink at once into public contempt.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

Ex-Senator Sargent and ex-Governor Perkins are the prominent republican candidates, and Sargent particularly is turning the national campaign to good account. He is really doing the heaviest work on the stump in the state, but the forces which caused his downfall a few years ago are still vigilant and determined, and his candidacy will cause a revolt something like that which met the intrusion of Mitchell into Oregon politics two years ago. A day or two ago the Post [illegible] Sargent's attitude towards the senatorial vacancy, and remarked that it may well be pointed to set it, for it may as well be stated now as later that there can be no advance in the political fortunes of Aaron A. Sargent in this state, as it would seriously impair the strength and usefulness of the republican campaign here.

The city campaign has not yet begun. With few exceptions the candidates, of whom there are about sixty, are unknown men, and for the most part they are men whom it would not be desirable to know. They are tools of the democratic boss (Buckley) on one hand and of the republican boss (Higgins) on the other hand. The rival bosses are now engaged in a chance game for funds, and in a few days the merry war will begin.

POLITICAL POINTS.

BLAINE'S MOVEMENTS.

LANCASTER, Oct. 12.—Blaine spent a quiet Sunday as the guest of his cousin, Hon P B Ewing. In the forenoon he attended Presbyterian services, and the afternoon he devoted to resting, in company with Judge Ewing, old relatives and friends, of whom he has a large number in this vicinity.

CHICAGO, Oct 12.—Blaine will visit Chicago October 25th and then go to Michigan.

LOGAN AT YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 12.—Logan arrived this evening from Cincinnati. He will be the guest of C. H. Andrews till Wednesday afternoon, when he will go to Chicago. Logan speaks at the Opera house Monday night, and General Rosecrans speaks for the democrats the same night, on the public square. There will be opposition torch light parades Monday evening.

A LETTER FROM ST JOHN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Ex-Governor St. John, prohibition candidate for president, issues a letter to-night reiterating the reasons given in his speech of Saturday night, and sent in these dispatches, why he should not retire from the canvass.

KANSAS PROHIBITIONISTS

ST LOUIS, Oct 12.—The prohibition state central committee of Kansas have put H. L. Phillips at the head of their state ticket, in place of A. B. Jetmore, who declined the nomination for governor.

THE EAST SIDE

OPENING OF ZION CHURCH

Zion church of the Evangelical Association, located on the corner of Sixth and V streets, Stephens addition, was opened under favorable auspices Saturday evening last. Services were continued morning and evening yesterday, and the final service of the opening series will take place this (Monday) evening, commencing at half past 7 o'clock.

Rev F. Strayer, pastor of the Salem mission, preached the initial sermon Saturday evening, from II Peter, i, 11—"For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." It was an able discourse, in which the text was felicitously applied to the occasion and the effect duly impressive.

Rev J Bowersox, presiding elder of the Willamette district, preached the sermon at the morning service yesterday, taking for his text Habakkuk ii, 20: "But the Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before him." Eloquent, powerful, appropriate and impressive the sermon was very effective for good.

The evening service yesterday commenced at 6 o'clock by communion, followed by a testimony meeting, after which Rev A. Krecker, pastor of the church at Corvallis, occupied the pulpit, preaching from Matthew xi, 28: "Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." It was a fine effort, showing that physical, mental, spiritual and eternal rest were to be obtained by accepting the invitation of God.

The services were well attended considering the unpropitious weather, and much interest is manifest in the progress of the church. The present building is the result of organized effort covering a period of about six months only, a merely nominal indebtedness being all that remains. At the time stated a class was formed by Rev A. Schlenk, pastor of the First German Evangelical church of Portland, and upon his report and recommendation to the conference which met at Corvallis in May last, a mission was located in Stephens' addition, and Rev C. C. Poling was appointed pastor. Rev Poling commenced his pastorate in June, and, pending the erection of the edifice under notice services have been held regularly at Shutes hall. The church has now a good and constantly increasing membership and a Sunday school numbering over fifty scholars. Much credit is due the pastor for his indefatigable efforts in bringing about the present happy issue in the [illegible] of labor assigned him. Not only by personal effort in securing financial assistance, but by practical manual labor on the building in order to curtail expenses, has he been instrumental in attaining the result under notice. The cost of the building, furniture, fixtures and all details was $2015 85. Of this amount Mr. Poling secured by subscription $1608 45, leaving a balance unpaid of $507 40. By the donations made at the services yesterday this debt was reduced to about $175, and this amount can be doubtless raised in a short time. The building is desirably located and presents a neat appearance. It is 36x50 feet, 18 feet in the clear, the ceiling being arched and has a seating capacity of about 250. It is lighted by ten gothic windows of enamel glass and the [illegible] handsome chandeliers and other lamps. The vestibule is [illegible] and the height of the steeple is 8[illegible] feet from the comb of the roof. It is furnished with comfortable seats of oiled ash, with suitable aisles, and a handsome pulpit of the same material graces the speaker's platform. In the recess behind the pulpit is conspicuously inscribed the motto in graceful design, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." A beautiful carpet covers the entire floor, adding greatly to the appearance and comfort of the church.

The church will not be dedicated until spring, when a bishop of the association is expected to arrive from the east.

A general invitation is extended the public to attend the service this evening. Seats free, and a cordial welcome to all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If, as asserted by democrats, "Blaine is failing," they would do well to get Cleveland into the same condition. Less neck and more brains would be a democratic gain.

Captain Ellsworth, who, it may be necessary to say, was recently nominated for the presidency by the American political alliance, thinks he has a dead sure thing. He calls at the post-office for his letters, and said to a clerk the other day: "You will soon have to forward my mail to the white house."

In the Mexican markets, the venders shout their goods all day, whether any one is listening or not. The cake vendor remarks "Fat little cakes" about four times a minute, while the poultry vendor sits lazily in the sun and sings by the hour, "Ducks and chickens! Oh, my soul, who wants good ducks and chickens?"

"Jefferson Davis is now the last of his line," says the Atlanta Constitution. "He has been married twice and has no male descendant who wears his name. Not long since he lost his only son, and recently the death of the son of General Joseph R. Davis, of Biloxi, Miss., took away the last hope of perpetuating by male descendants the name of Jefferson Davis."

An English resident in China says that the "small" house boats are one of the most curious phases of domestic life in that country. They are about the size of two good four-post beds placed end to end. They are covered in at night by a roof of bamboo matting, and in them man and wife, grandparents and little children, cook, sleep and worship, the family altar always occupying the place of honor.

Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, than whom no one is better qualified to speak on the subject, exhibits Governor Cleveland's attitude toward the reform legislation of last winter in a new light. Cleveland was a good enough passive reformer till he got the presidential bee in his bonnet, after which time his only desire was to reform the [illegible] much in [illegible] Cleveland [illegible]

Carl Schurz showed by his manner, his appearance and even by the words of his speech that he considers the battle already lost. At the [illegible] he looked as lugubrious as if he were the typical "just man over victimized by unmerited [illegible]." As he gazed around him and presented his cogitations to German republicans [illegible] of the county democracy in the [illegible] must have had an easy consciousness that he did not know he was accusing of lack of principle [illegible] to do with the president [illegible] deal in which he himself had a jackal's portion.—*N. How the Atlanta was Christened with Water Instead of Wine—General Grant Makes a Suggestion—Etc

THEATRICAL NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 12.—[Special.]—The week has been a dull one in the theaters. The only notable event was the appearance of Effie Ellsler. So far her season has not been successful, in an artistic sense, though the Baldwin theater has been filled nightly. Miss Ellsler attempted too much, and the critics think she will never be able to shine outside of such characters as Hazel Kirke. The new sensation, "Called Back," will be put on at the Baldwin this week with Miss Ellsler in the principal part.

Other theaters have done fairly well during the week. Stechhan & Cornelius' minstrels are, next to the Baldwin, doing the best business in the city, and will probably be able to hold up well all winter.

Grismer, with Phoebe Davis, Mabel Bert and a good general company, will start north, via the Montana circuit, in about two weeks. They do not now expect to reach Portland for several weeks, though their plans are not definitely fixed.

THE RAINY SEASON BEGINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The rainy season may be said to have set in. To-day 07 of an inch fell here, and reports received to-night by the signal service bureau show that rain has fallen during the day along the entire coast, from Tatoosh island in the north to San Diego in the south.

[Special.]—Rain began falling at 3 o'clock this morning, and at midnight it is still raining. It will put the ground in fine condition for farming operations, and is therefore welcome. It is predicted that the fall sowing of wheat this year will fall short of former plantings. The low price of wheat has discouraged many farmers in that crop, and much land heretofore devoted to grain will be planted in other crops. The fruit crop was never better than this year and yields excellent prices.

ALLEGED EXPOSE OF OPIUM SMUGGLING

[Special.]—The Chronicle this morning makes an alleged expose of smuggling operations in opium, which is claimed have extended through a course of years, and has yielded wealth to several ship masters in the Puget sound and San Francisco trade, and to their employes. It is asserted that two firms in this city interested in the Northern Coasting trade have particularly profited by the illicit traffic. The method of the smugglers, it is alleged, has been to put opium on board the coasters as they pass through the straits of Fuca, small boats coming out from Victoria on that errand. The whole story has an air of improbability, deepened by the fact that no names are given.

PERSONAL.

[Special.]—T J Judkins of Oregon was registered at the Grand Central hotel in New York yesterday.

D M Hunter of Eastern Oregon is in the city. He has secured several fine blooded sheep, which will be added to his flock in Grant county.

Arthur Henry has entered a business college here, and will remain during the winter.

KNOTT HAS STECHHAN ARRESTED

[Special.]—W. W. Knott caused the arrest of Frank Stechhan to-day, on a charge of assault and battery, and the matter will come up in the police court to-morrow.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY

NEWS ITEMS FROM SEATTLE

SEATTLE, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The greatest social event of the season was a party at Mayor John Leary's house on last Friday evening. About 150 persons were present, including the elite of the town.

A great republican rally was held here last evening.

A most foul murder has been committed here. About 1:30 Friday evening a French waiter in a restaurant on Washington street went as usual with the supper for a Mexican woman named Refuja Mexica. On finding the front door locked he went to the back door, and when inside he lit a match, when to his horror, he discovered the woman on the floor, apparently dead. He summoned a neighbor, and they together sent for a doctor, who arrived only to pronounce her dead. Yesterday an inquest was held, at which it was found that she had been strangled by an unknown person. The police are working earnestly to find the culprit.

UTAH.

TAYLOR AND CANNON MAKE A DENIAL.

SALT LAKE, Oct 12.—Presidents John Taylor and George Q. Cannon, leaders of the Mormon church, in an interview emphatically repudiate the statement telegraphed from New York that the Mormon church had appropriated money to aid in the election of the democratic presidential ticket, for which certain considerations were to be given in return. They assert that anything of the kind in any form, has no existence or foundation whatever in fact, and that the dispatch referred to has been manufactured for electioneering and prejudicial purposes.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

THE ATALANTA CHRISTENED WITH WATER.

WASHINGTON, Oct 12.—[Special.]—The United States steamer Atalanta, the new vessel which was launched at Chester, Pennsylvania, on Thursday is the first vessel of our navy which was christened with cold water instead of the customary bottle of wine. It was the intention of contractor Roach, in whose yard the ship was built, to have used a bottle of champagne which he had prepared. The bottle was handsomely decorated with red, white and blue ribbons. Miss Jessie Lincoln, daughter of the secretary of war, was present, and she was selected to break the bottle on the prow of the vessel, as the latter glided into the water, the usual way of christening. Little Jessie promised to do as she was bid, but when the time arrived the child decided that the bottle, with its trimmings, was too pretty to be broken, and she kept it tightly within her grasp. One of the deck hands, noticing that the child did not break the bottle, grabbed up a bucketful of water and threw its contents upon the ship's bow as she made her first plunge into the water. Secretary Lincoln's little daughter retained the bottle of wine, and brought it to this city with her, ribbons and all. This incident created considerable talk among naval officers, one of whom said it was the first recognition of the prohibition sentiment by the navy. Roach, however, supplied a liberal amount of wine afterward to the distinguished launching party.

GENERAL GRANT'S SUGGESTION

NEW YORK, Oct 12.—[Special.]—After giving his views on the new Mexican treaty to the South American commission the other day, General Grant said that instead of scattering consuls about there should be appointed, at every port commercial agents who should have the privilege of engaging in business. They should be permitted to act as drummers for manufacturers of the United States, they should have samples sent them, and be allowed to sell on commission to merchants of the ports at which they are located. The trouble now was that poorly paid consuls had no motive in promoting trade, and merchants and manufacturers had no means of reaching certain foreign markets, except by incurring the expense of sending an agent to places. The commercial agents, as he suggests, should perform all the duties now assigned to consuls, receive fees therefor, and be allowed to engage in business as commission merchants.

MONDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13, 1884.

THE MIGHTY STRUGGLE IN OHIO.

There is little thought and no talk about anything but politics, and the election which is to take place in Ohio tomorrow is the focal point of all thought and talk. Were the issues in that state made solely on national questions there would be no doubt of a prodigious republican majority. In all probability it would be greater than for many years. But there is a local question that disturbs very much the old status of parties. It will be understood, of course, that the liquor question is meant. The whole force of the free liquor party is massed on the democratic side. The republicans are the authors of the law that imposes on each retail liquor shop the moderate tax of $200 a year. This has angered the liquor sellers, who insist that the traffic shall be free, and they are throwing their whole influence in favor of the democratic party, which promises them that there shall be no tax or other restraint upon liquor selling in Ohio. Distillers, brewers and wholesale dealers are making common cause with the retail venders, and enormous sums of money, contributed by the liquor traffic, not only in Ohio but throughout the country, have been thrown into the present contest. At the other extreme the prohibitionists, incensed because the republican party has not gone further with the policy of repression, have set up a ticket of their own, which they claim will take thousands of votes away from the republican column. It is this situation in Ohio that causes so active, so strenuous, so desperate a contest. It gives the democratic party, aided by its free liquor allies, a strong hope of being able to win, and it makes it apparent to the republican party that it must put forth every possible effort if it would save the state. What makes the contest more doubtful than it would otherwise be is the fact that the democrats carried the state last year on this very issue by a majority of 12,629.

But, fortunately for the republicans of Ohio, there is no other unknown quantity in this struggle than that which arises out of the liquor question. There are no so-called independents in the state. To Mr. Blaine there is no opposition whatever that any other republican candidate would not encounter at this time, and all advices from Ohio go to show that he is the strongest man whom the party could have offered. He will be ten to twenty thousand votes stronger in November than the state ticket is now, as Lincoln and Grant and Garfield were. It is believed, however, that the state will go republican on Tuesday by a good majority. Democratic as well as republican reports say that this result is expected. Should it be so, the event would go far towards settling the final contest in favor of the republicans. Should it be otherwise, it must then be considered probable that the democrats will win the presidency.

And yet even a democratic victory in Ohio tomorrow might not be decisive in its effect upon the final result, because it is only through its alliance with the liquor element that the democratic party has any standing whatever for a contest in Ohio, and the conditions of the contest elsewhere are by no means the same as there. In Iowa, Michigan and Kansas, where the liquor question is also uppermost, republican majorities hitherto have been very great; and though they will now be reduced, yet they are too large to be overborne. Besides, the aspects of the liquor contests in those states are much different from those presented in Ohio. In New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut the liquor question will play no part at all, beyond the few votes that may be cast for the prohibition candidates. This contest in Ohio is therefore unique: it is not paralleled elsewhere and if the republicans carry the state now, and in spite of the disadvantage they are forced to meet on this local question, the event will be significant of the strength of the party in states where only national issues are presented. Ohio will not be republican to-morrow unless the republicans can succeed in pushing national issues into prominence over the local liquor question. If they can succeed in this in Ohio, it will be a sign that in other states where the local difficulties are much less, they will have easier work. But for this liquor question, with the close alliance it has brought about between the democratic party, the distilleries and the saloons, there would be no fight in Ohio at all. It would nearly be a republican walkover, with twenty-five to forty thousand majority. The following figures show the vote of Ohio at the elections in October preceding presidential elections, for sixteen years:

	Rep.	Dem.
1868	265,865	249,682
1872	265,930	251,780
1876	316,472	311,098
1880	362,421	343,016

The scattering vote, amounting to some thousands each year, is omitted. The increase of the vote from 1872 to 1876, and from 1876 to 1880, would indicate that the increase now to be expected would swell the total to nearly or quite 800,000. The republicans, losing the portion of the liquor vote which hitherto has been cast for their candidates, may still win the state by getting their proportion of the new vote, which probably will make the total poll nearly 100,000 greater than that of October, 1880. Good judges, who have been studying closely the aspects of the contest in Ohio, believe that the republicans will throw nearly 400,000 votes, that the combined vote of the democrats, prohibitionists and greenbackers will be about as much as the republican vote, and that a republican plurality therefore is to be expected about equal to the prohibition, greenback and scattering vote combined. If these opinions are well founded, the republicans will be ahead by ten to fifteen thousand.

"OBSCURE AND IGNORANT."

General Dan. Sickles is a strong democrat. Four years ago he made speeches for General Hancock, but he can't support Cleveland. He says the state of New York has 5000 democrats who rank him in the knowledge required for the presidential office. Never, he says, were men so terribly deceived in a man as in Cleveland in the Chicago convention. He adds:

> I made a speech at Buffalo four years ago for General Hancock. All the prominent democrats of the city were present. I was told not one was absent. Grover Cleveland was not among them. He was not considered eminent or prominent even from a local standpoint. He was without [illegible] standing, and is still without it. John Kelly nominated him for governor on account of factions, and because a couple of hundred thousand republicans stayed at home in the election [illegible] the democratic delegates at Chicago hoodwinked to the conclusion that Mr. Cleveland carried New York in his capacious vest pocket. Never were men so deceived. Cleveland is an ignorant man—a terribly ignorant man. He cannot be otherwise when he will so outrage executive dignity and propriety as to write a letter demanding that a certain state Senator shall not be re-elected because he is obnoxious to him. That was what he did about Grady. Suppose the President of the United States should write a letter demanding the resignation of a judge of the supreme court because the latter's rulings were obnoxious to the chief executive, how many million votes would that president be buried under if he should come up for re-election? Why, he would be the worst defeated man that ever ran for office. In the exercise of the veto power Cleveland has shown crass ignorance. He seems to think that the veto is given to the governor to be exercised at random [illegible].

Four years ago Cleveland was not prominent enough to be noticed even as a local politician in Buffalo. The man of dull mind, coarse nature and lewd habits, is only a prize candidate, drawn in the humbug lottery of availability.

The French writer, Bastiat, says that "the protectionist prays for a famine." The free trader does too if he lives in Oregon where wheat is in great supply and the market is bad. That is, he "prays for a famine" in other countries. Both the protectionist and free trader are so constituted as to be able to bear with great serenity and fortitude the misfortunes of others, especially when those misfortunes bring profit to themselves.

The most careful and sagacious judges do not believe that Ohio can be floated over to the democratic party on a wave of free whisky, and that a republican victory of moderate proportions will be the result of to-morrow's election.

DRUDGES.

There are a great many thankless jobs to be done in one place or another in every community, and somebody must do them. They are often done without any questions being raised as to whether they are thankless or not—done through the stress of a generous impulse which is its own law, and luckily, in many cases, its own sufficient reward. That is, the action itself in its sweetness at the time and grateful aftertaste is reward enough. A man sees that a certain thing ought to be done. There is nobody else to do it. It is his opportunity. He goes ahead and does it. He does it cheerily, and the community, or some part of it which amounts to the same thing, is just so much the better off. Why, when he finds out a little later that his service has not been fully appreciated, should he get deliberately mad and vow that he will never take the lead in any purely benevolent enterprise again, or do any job for the benefit of other people which does not cost them something as well as himself? Or why, in one case, should he become morose, cynical and captious, wet-blanketing with "faint praise" every new, generous project before it is fairly born, though he wishes it well in his heart; or, in another, be so fussily obtrusive in its efforts to keep out of other people's way that he is continually getting into it? But happily this doesn't often occur. As a rule the man who has done one good deed is very apt to do another one.

Now and then these thankless jobs are done from a high, but cold sense of duty. The head is so entirely clear and right about the matter in question, and the conscience so positive and inexorable, that there is really no way for a man but to go ahead and do the work to which he seems to have been providentially called. In such cases thanks are of small consequence, appreciation is hardly expected, and sometimes the good or bad opinion of the world are alike regarded with a sort of lofty indifference. While there is nothing magnetic about such examples, and though they fail to rouse any enthusiasm, it must be admitted there is something very fine and admirable in the spectacle of a man deliberately setting himself to doing a good action because it is right and ought to be done, and without any regard to what the public may say about the cost of it or his motives. The hardest thing of all to bear is the misjudging of one's motives. That must be a profound philosophy, or a very Christian sort of philanthropy, which can composedly put up with it. In the smaller things of life especially—things which in the aggregate go far toward making up the sum total of the welfare of communities, the prosperity of churches, the good order of societies, the very existence of a variety of associations for good purposes—the doer of the thankless jobs is a voluntary drudge. A drudge, first by accident, then perhaps from habit, until it comes to seem, after awhile, that he must have been foreordained to be a drudge by [illegible]. When the work in hand belongs to nobody in particular to do, he does it. When those that it does belong to shirk it, he does it all the same, or gets it done, because the work is of more consequence than the shirks are. He gets usually little special honor. Whatever he does he seems to do as a matter of course. It is only when such a man dies that his real value and the measure of his usefulness are fully seen. But he gets his reward in a way satisfactory to himself as he goes along, and besides he doubtless knows beforehand whether he ever hears of it in the other world or not, how much he will be missed at last.

If nobody did drudgery without being paid for it in so much money, so much favor, so much power, so much fame, so much help in one way or another, the world would be in a bad plight, indeed. Drudges from first to last have done a large share of the bottom work, and much of the top work of all civilization and progress, though the workers have been too often lost sight of in the work itself, or in the greater glory of some rare man who was at once a drudge, a genius, and the favorite of fortune.

VERY PECULIAR.

Such journals as Harper's Weekly and the the Times and Evening Post of New York say that as soon as "Blaineism" is defeated they will return to the republican party and help to "make a strong and effective instrument of good government and reform." The words just quoted are from the Times. Here is singular obliquity. These journals are now extolling the democratic party as the great "instrument of good government and reform." If such be its character what excuse can they have for deserting it and coming back to the republican party? Cleveland, they say, is an honest and able man, will establish and maintain a faultless non-partisan administration, will push civil service reform and give the country just such a government as it ought to have; and yet they are going to desert this president, turn their backs on his administration, aid the republican party to beat him and his administration down, and put a republican administration in next time! What could better illustrate the woful lack of honesty in the alleged independent position? Of Cleveland the Times also says:

> He has none of the ordinary weaknesses and defects of experienced politicians. He is straightforward, candid, outspoken and courageous, and to a degree almost unprecedented in these later times he has testified by word and deed to his devotion to the interests of the people.

Yet only last October [illegible] 5th day thereof,—less than one year ago—the Times said:

> Nothing, for instance, could be more preposterous than a nomination to the presidency of Gov. Cleveland, who a year ago was mayor of Buffalo, who had never been known even in state politics, whose election was conducted by a single enthusiastic newspaper, and who was elected governor over a man of far higher standing as a public man, simply because of the disgust of a considerable number of republicans with a considerable number of things, chiefly by the method by which the nomination of the republican candidate was brought about. And yet the nomination of this parochial statesman is quite on the cards.

Could there be a better specimen of the quack medicine illustration of "before taking" and "after taking?" Again, on 6th June, 1876, after Blaine had read the Mulligan letters in the house of representatives and made a statement about them the Times said:

> Mr. Blaine's statement disposes at least of the various damaging inferences which the letters were believed to sustain and it relieves him from the charge of dishonorable or underhand dealing.

Yet the Times now says that the Mulligan letters fix upon him a brand of dishonor and infamy. What can be the motive of all these tergiversations? It can exist only in personal animosities; it cannot be based on regard for high moral principles.

A statement of the acres of original and final homesteads for the year ended June 30, 1884, has been given out by the commissioner of the general land office. The total of the former is 7,831,509 acres, and of the latter 2,945,371 acres. In original entries Dakota ranks first, her total being 2,161,267 acres. Nebraska follows with 1,362,180 acres; then Kansas with 518,770, Minnesota with 444,358, California with 427,701 and Washington territory with 419,895. In Oregon the number of acres covered by original homestead entries during the year was 233,18[illegible]. It may be a surprise to many to learn that original homesteads are still being taken in large numbers in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and even in Illinois and Wisconsin. Nevada, the desert state, is down for only 2370 acres taken as homesteads during the year.

A prodigious cackle is raised by the Standard over the announcement that an individual whom it calls "Col. W. H. H. (Waters)"—known to the liquor trade as "Strong Waters"—is going to vote for Cleveland. Waters has been on the down grade for many years, and has landed at the bottom at last. Republicans have been unable to associate with or recognize him, and he has been compelled, almost, to go to the democratic party for companionship. When the Morton committee was here to investigate Grover's election to the senate Waters was a witness. He was testifying to having overheard a conversation in the Chemeketa hotel. Counsel for Mr. Grover asked this question "Mr. Waters, were you drunk or sober when you overheard that conversation?" "I wish you to understand, sir," pompously replied Waters, "that whether drunk or sober I was in my normal condition!" There seems to be no reason why "Col. Strong Waters" should have stayed away from the democratic party so long as he has. He would not have gone there even yet, however, had the republican party given him office that he wanted but was unfit to hold.

A correspondent relates the manner in which the democrats are carrying on the contest in Ohio, thus: "A book has been seen in democratic hands, containing a list of all the republicans in Pickaway county, or those likely to vote with the republicans, and against the names of those liable to be influenced by money was written the fact and the amount of money estimated to be necessary in each case. The book was for the use of the democratic committee." The money is furnished by the free liquor ring.

A TRIP TO EUROPE.

II.

We took rooms in London at the Midland hotel, built and owned by the Midland Railway company. We noticed immediately the difference from American hotels. There is none of the life and bustle of New York, Chicago or San Francisco. All is solemn and quiet, and every guest glances furtively at each newcomer, and sets him down in his mind as being of an equal class with himself in which case he can make his acquaintance; or as having blood of more or less blueness in his veins, in which case he keeps at a distance. These class distinctions are just as ludicrous as senseless, and make Americans feel out of their proper sphere. I must remark that on the continent, although people are just as conscious of their social rank as in England, they mix more readily in business and social life with those same classes removed than in England.

The eating is good at these large railroad hotels, only we must have a stock of patience to draw from, as we sit at the table and wonder why it takes forty-five minutes to boil a couple of eggs and a cup of coffee. We would rather employ those forty-five minutes in seeing something of the city. When our breakfast is finished, during the whole course of which we have been stared out of countenance by the waiters, we leave the hotel and saunter forth in quest of novel sights and sounds. We see enormous long rows of houses, built all alike and without any separating space between; built of bricks, smoky with age and London air, having no ornaments except that characteristic London ornament—chimney-pots. How one can find his own door on a dark night after having been for some hours at the club, or in the theater, or seeing the lions, is a mystery to me. Indeed, many English novels, amongst others, the famous "Tale of Back," owe their plots to people entering wrong houses by mistake.

We take a hansom cab to Oxford street where we spend many hours looking at the shop windows, especially the tastefully arranged exhibits of fruits and flowers, but when we enter and ask for prices, all the charm vanishes, and we prefer the unromantic fruit stands of Portland. I will not say what a peach or a Bartlett pear costs in Oxford street, because, if I did, my readers would put me down with the presidential candidates as a prevaricator of truth.

We stop at a clothing establishment, and immediately the wish becomes prominent that fashions should not change for the next ten years, and that we had enough trunks to stow thirty or forty suits in. Good suits can be had for less than half their price in America. However, the ladies of our party could find no bargains and decided they could do just as well in Portland, and get better fits. I had to pay some of the dressmaker's bills, and came to the same conclusion.

But I must say something about Liverpool. It is a good place to get away from, and people who have to go there generally leave it as soon as their business permits. It has few good hotels for such a large city, and no large theaters. It is, in fact, a provincial town, four and a half hours by railroad distant from London, and very near to Manchester, which latter city imports its cotton from Liverpool, and sends its calico off by the same route. The water along the docks is too low to allow sea-going vessels to approach, so all the passengers, baggage, freight and emigrants are taken on board the large vessels by steam tender. They have lately introduced this nuisance also in New York, where incoming steamers send their passengers ashore in the same manner. We also left Liverpool as soon as the first fast train was ready. Along the route of the Midland we have some beautiful, but not grand scenery. Everywhere large manufactories. We used to think that only Sheffield, Birmingham and Manchester had large manufactories, but found that our idea was wrong. Every few minutes we passed a town or city with chimneys fifty or a hundred feet high, from which issued volumes of black smoke. The grass is very green, the trees are small but well shaped, the hedges high and serving well for fences. We see some cattle, horses and sheep, and in some portions of England agriculture seemed to be a branch of industry. The manufacturing interests outweigh the agricultural by far.

Our cars are comfortable, but on the old English plan, in compartments for ten passengers. The seats are quite comfortable, the roadbed very good, but still there is considerable jostling, because the trains run forty-five or fifty miles an hour, including stoppages, and the construction of the cars is not as favorable for ease and comfort as the Pullman cars. We receive no checks for our baggage, but the comforting instruction to keep our eyes on it, and claim it when we arrive at our destination. That, under these circumstances, no more baggage, or "luggage," as the English say, is lost is remarkable. When we arrive at King's Cross, in London, we hail a cab, claim our luggage, pay fees to the porter for putting the trunk on the cab, to another porter for holding the carriage door open while we get in; another heavy fee, besides his regular fare, or if you are not well posted two or three times the regular fare, to the honest coachman; another fee to the porter of the hotel who takes your trunk in, and to the man who holds your carriage door open while you get out, and when you are safely stowed away in your room you put your hand in your pocket every time the door opens, because you think somebody might want another pour-boire.

LIES ABOUT BLAINE EXPLODED.

The Falsehood Relating to Union Pacific Matters.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6.—The Journal says: At the office of the Union Pacific railroad company in this city to-day the attention of a prominent director was called to the week-old telegram from Boston to the New York Evening Post, to the effect that the officers of the company have some very damaging letters of Mr. Blaine's, which may be published hereafter. "There is not a particle of truth in the story," was his emphatic response. "I do not think that Mr. Blaine ever wrote a letter to the directors or that any came into their possession as directors from Mr. Blaine."

He then called a gentleman who is entirely familiar with all the correspondence of the company, and asked him if he knew of any letter of Mr. Blaine's in the possession of the company. He replied:

"No letter has ever been received by the company from Mr. Blaine, nor has there ever been any written by him in our possession."

That would seem to settle that.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM WM. [illegible] LEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.

The democratic press is magnifying an apparent discrepancy between Mr. Blaine's letter to Mr. Bundy, which speaks of his loan of $12,500, and the published letter to Mr. Brooks and myself in which the sum referred to appears to have been $25,000. The answer is that while the negotiations were made in Mr. Blaine's name, the fact was that Mr. Elkins took half the option and paid half the money. This fact was well known at the time to General James A. Hall, J. Henry Brooks and my attorney, General Thomas Ewing, but it did not seem to me to be pertinent to the issue, and therefore was not mentioned in my published letter. I repeat what I said in that letter that irrespective of the form of the receipt possessed by Mr. Brooks the transaction was a mere option to buy an interest in the Hope Furnace association, which interest Mr. Blaine elected not to take, and therefore the $25,000, by the terms of the arrangement became a loan secured by mortgaged bonds of the Standard Coal and Iron Company. I, therefore, reiterate that Mr. Blaine's letter to Hon. J. S. Bundy is true in every particular.

W. D. LEE.

ANOTHER NAME SUGGESTED.

PENDLETON, Oct. 10.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I noticed in the last issue of THE OREGONIAN "A Name Wanted." Allow me to suggest a name—one I think appropriate—a historical and a noted name in early days. It is Kesno. He was one of the most noted chiefs of his day, commanding tribes located from the points of the now city of Portland down the Willamette and Columbia rivers to the mouth of the Cowlitz. The nameless station was one of his camping grounds, and at the head of Sauvie's island was one of his permanent villages. I hope the name will be appropriate and accepted.

METEOROLOGICAL REPORT.

AUCTION SALE TO-DAY.

Gilman & Co. sell the entire furniture of residence [illegible] this morning at 10 o'clock.

BRIEF MENTION.

Lee Chung, an employe of Quan Wo On, died yesterday of consumption.

Partridge has been appointed official [illegible] for the Mechanics' fair this year.

The Traveler's time schedule has been changed. In future she will leave Portland [illegible] the morning.

The residence of Miss Gertie Oppenheimer, [illegible] corner of Eighth and Stark streets, was robbed of a lot of jewelry last evening.

A sturgeon about two feet long has been placed in the large pool in the grotto at the fair [illegible] is a handsome fish, if any one don't care who [illegible] says.

The steamship Willamette arrived at Seattle [illegible] a day or two since with 700 tons of railroad iron for the Cedar river extension. She will load [illegible] there for this port.

The government boat, Cascades of the [illegible] Columbia, came in yesterday with her flag at half [illegible] mast, bringing the body of Harry Abbey, who committed suicide on Saturday.

The Sellwood met with a slight accident [illegible] yesterday that will cause her being [illegible] up for repairs. Another boat will take her place, so that traffic will not suffer.

The body of young Abbey was brought down [illegible] the Cascades yesterday, and is at [illegible] funeral will probably take place from [illegible] church Tuesday, and the remains will be [illegible] at River View cemetery.

The funeral of Lizzie Alice Snyder occurred yesterday afternoon from the residence of [illegible] The [illegible] was a granddaughter [illegible] formerly United States marshal [illegible] A large number of carriages [illegible] the remains to [illegible]

Railroad Tickets.

Tickets to all points east over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Short line for sale only by A. L. Maxwell, ticket agent O. R. & N. Co., Ash st. wharf, Portland, or by regular coupon ticket agents on this coast.

Election Returns.

The election returns from Ohio and West Virginia will be promptly bulletined at the Merchants' Exchange saloon, New Market block, Tuesday evening, [illegible] o'clock. W. L. LIGHTNER, Proprietor.

Musical News.

Professor Joseph [illegible] has just returned, and is located in the hall over the Louisville restaurant, First st., bet. Morrison and Yamhill. He is ready to teach in classes and in private. Call between 9 A. M. and 6 P. M.

A Rare Opportunity.

Dr. Mintie, the celebrated specialist of San Francisco, will remain in Portland but a few days longer. The doctor is a thoroughly educated medical gentleman, and is known all over the Pacific coast as having performed remarkable cures in his line of practice. This will be a rare opportunity to consult the great specialist right in our own midst. See advertisement on fourth page.

Millinery at Cost.

Mrs. Hanover, the popular milliner, on Third and Washington sts., informs the ladies of Portland and vicinity that she has purchased an elegant stock of fine millinery in the East and home markets, which she now offers at cost, with her entire stock on hand. Great bargains will be offered for the next thirty days. Mrs. Hanover's business has so increased that she intends to move to more commodious quarters.

Notice to the Public.

An advertisement which appeared in a Sunday paper has led a great many of my friends to think that I was running the St. Charles restaurant, which is an error, as I have no connection whatever with the place, excepting that the gentlemen running the same formerly were my cooks. I will further state that in a few days I will open the Gilman House, when I will be pleased to see all of my old patrons and the eating public in general. LOUIS EPPINGER.

Pictures, Frames and Mirrors at Auction.

On and after October [illegible] Robbins & Son will offer at auction sale, daily, their stock of pictures, frames, mirrors and brackets, in order to close out this class of goods. The firm intend to devote their entire attention to the music business, and in order to do so they find it necessary to dispose of the goods mentioned above, and propose to make sacrifices to that end. Those desirous of obtaining bargains will do well to call at 220 First street.

Good Luck to the Ladies.

A $65.00 sewing machine to be given away. The ladies of Portland, Oregon and Washington territory are respectfully invited to call at Garrison's Sewing Machine Store, 167 Third street, during the continuance of the fair, where all the latest and best machines are to be found on exhibition. As a special inducement every lady will be given a ticket for one chance to win the machine at the drawing which will take place at [illegible] o'clock on Saturday afternoon, October 25, in the presence of the ticket holders, at Garrison's Sewing Machine Store. JOHN B. GARRISON, Proprietor.

The Truth About La Camas.

That it is the only place in the northwest unaffected by the present dull times.

[illegible] magnificent waterpower and its fine location, now, the liveliest town in the northwest. [illegible] people are rapidly [illegible] new men from the east [illegible] have brought large capital and abundant [illegible] will them.

[illegible] is the best place in all this country for new comers to make a start in business or to get work.

[illegible] is not a real estate speculation and has no real estate boomers.

[illegible] costs only $1 for the round trip and a few hours [illegible] to go and see it.

Take the steamer [illegible] at the foot of Morrison st., Portland, at 2:30 P. M. daily.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

[illegible] Owing to [illegible] A large number of the [illegible] at [illegible] I am credible several [illegible] and [illegible] Plenty of ducks everywhere, mostly widgeon, with a few mallards but owing to the scarcity of water in the wapato lakes they were not [illegible] and so were difficult to get at Several flocks of canvas backs were seen, and one lucky fellow brought down a pair, the first of the season The best bag made by any pair of hunters was made by Jack Matthews and Dave Campbell, who killed thirty nine widgeons Bodley got sixteen and Will Curry and three companions thirty-one of those twenty three falling to Curry's gun When a good frost has killed the wapato plants and the lakes where they grow have filled with water shooting will commence in earnest, and the fact of canvas having been seen yesterday will have a tendency to draw a "full house next Sunday, when it is expected that the annual club hunt will take place Dan Howe and E J Stewart with their wives are camped by Sturgeon lake and are having fine sport They have a skiff and go every evening to a point where geese and sandhill cranes are wont to resort

BURN YOUR KITCHEN REFUSE —The Chinese swill gatherer is not very highly esteemed as a member of society, and yet when he fails to make his rounds his absence is a source of annoyance to many It appears that several of these fellows have retired from business but [illegible] on account of the sudden and untimely taking off of a large number of swine, which led to the supposition that the swill had been poisoned One Chinaman lost 180 hogs and came near increasing the number by dying himself of grief He will gather in the fragrant and nutritious swill no more, and many a barrel is pensively pouring its overflow into the back yard of the disquieted householder The result will be that the hog muncher will, like Norval, have to feed his swine upon the Grampian hills and the householder must burn the refuse from the kitchen which is the best way [illegible] of it

S[illegible] OPERATION —A [illegible] was successfully performed on [illegible] the son of R Knoll, a few [illegible], by Dr H [illegible] Wilson assisted by Drs McKenzie [illegible] The little fellow [illegible] in the last stage of [illegible]

IRON FOR THE OREGON PACIFIC —The [illegible] ship Yaquina was discharging railroad iron [illegible] yesterday, and it is expected that the work will be completed to-day and that she will sail for San Francisco to-morrow to return immediately with another cargo The steamer Coos Bay is now on her way here with 3[illegible]0 tons [illegible] rails also for the Oregon Pacific road The Wilmington left San Francisco yesterday with a cargo of rails for Yaquina This will give the O P Co all the iron needed immediately and the rest under will be brought up on schooners Without doubt Portland and Yaquina will be connected by rail in a very short time We shall then have another source to look to for supplies of oysters, flounders and other products of the [illegible] deep

GRAND LODGE K OF P —The grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Oregon convenes at Albany to-morrow Attending knights will leave this city by morning train, arriving at Albany at noon, where they will be met by Albany lodges The order of exercises has already been published. Members and friends of the order are assured a hearty welcome, and their stay will be made an enjoyable one To-night Ivanhoe lodge of this city have arranged to greet members en route for Albany Past Grand Chancellor Newcomb will present a colored silk banner to the best-drilled squad, the drill to take place some time Tuesday At this time it is not known how many lodges will compete, but enough have signified their intention of so [illegible] to assure sharp competition

MUST BE GOT RID OF —Councilmen Fiedler and Gerden have been scouring the region round about the city endeavoring to find some place where the scavengers can be allowed to deposit the garbage they collect There is a pressing necessity that a place of this kind should be provided As has been often stated citizens are [illegible] if they do not have garbage removed, and [illegible] are [illegible] if they deposit it anywhere It is a very unpleasant state of affairs for all concerned, and it is to be hoped it may speedily be remedied If no dumping place can be procured a cremating furnace will have to be built as if the garbage, filth and refuse matter of all kinds is allowed to accumulate for a few years Portland will be turned [illegible] than Pompeii or Herculaneum

THE KINDERGARTEN ENDORSED —Rev F R Marvin at the morning service in the Congregational church yesterday recommend the kindergarten to his people The work was [illegible] kind worthy of all support and could be conducted for less than $[illegible]000 a year It was an [illegible] being connected with no church or denomination Its patrons, whose names were appended to a prospectus to be found in the [illegible] represent alive men and women from all churches Something should be done for the needy and neglected children of Portland especially in the First and Third wards He hoped there would be a generous response from his church

REGIMENTAL BALL —A grand promenade concert and ball will be given by the second brigade of the First regiment of Oregon state militia in Mechanics' pavilion on the evening of the [illegible] inst Music will be furnished by the Fifteenth Infantry band the concert lasting from [illegible] o'clock at which hour dancing will commence The floor will be covered with canvas, and no pains will be spared to make this ball one of the great social events of the season As company G is the only one entered for the competitive drill intended to take place during the fair it is probable that the drill will not take place. The arrangements can be effected [illegible] competitive drill will be made a feature of the ball

RECTOR INSTITUTED —Rev George W Foote [illegible] having been elected rector of Trinity church in this city was duly instituted yesterday by the Right Reverend Bishop Morris assisted by Right Reverend Bishop Paddock and Rev Mr Bell of Washington territory In the evening special services were held Bishop Paddock [illegible] The ceremony of institution was very impressive the new rector receiving the [illegible] from Bishop Morris The music [illegible] under the direction of Professor [illegible] with Mr [illegible] at the organ was [illegible]

BROKE HIS JAW —At almost [illegible] John [illegible] employed at the car shops met with a serious accident Saturday afternoon A miss-blow with a hammer caused him to fall forward heavily against some machinery, his face striking against a wheel and breaking the upper jaw bone The fracture was reduced by Dr Nottage

[illegible] were [illegible] the stables which [illegible] A few [illegible] his gorgeous [illegible] [illegible] drenched [illegible] were standing [illegible] that summer was over, [illegible] no hay while the sun shone During the afternoon the wind veered to the southeast the sky was overcast and there was every appearance of impending rain but only a slight sprinkle fell About 10 o'clock P M, frequent and vivid flashes of lightning were seen

TIRESOME DELAYS —Passengers who arrived here on Saturday night eleven hours behind time had a rather unpleasant trip in from The Dalles Some delay was caused by a sleeping car getting off the track, and at Bonneville the train ran into a land slide, which caused further delay, and one of the locomotives was considerably injured After passing this obstruction another land slide was met near Troutdale The passengers by this time were becoming ravenous and as T Dunbar, who had been drumming through Montana for orders for apples, was on board his samples were brought out and a meal made of apples and water which, if not very satisfying, had the merit of being wholesome

OFF FOR HOME —Mr F Blake late editor of the Seattle Sun and Star, leaves for New York [illegible] this morning to act as regular correspondent of THE OREGONIAN Mr Blake is one of the best known journalists in the northwest and being a native New Yorker will prove a valuable [illegible] in his new field of labor

OREGON PRODUCTS ABROAD

Under the head of "A Magnificent Display" the South Bend (Ind) Daily Times of September [illegible] says At our fair those who attend may have noticed an exceedingly fine display of greens grasses, apples and pears on the south side of the Exposition hall among the collection of fruits These samples were from the far distant state of Oregon, from Mr A F Wheeler son in law of W H Stull of Centre Township and they were sent here on purpose to exhibit to show what Oregon could do in the line of grain and fruit raising In this collection were eleven different varieties of wheat in head and six in bottle The stalk of that in head was remarkably heavy, while the heads were exceedingly large The berry, as shown in the bottle, was large and firm Among these samples were [illegible] day wheat, Blue Velvet, Golden Amber, Mole's white winter, Silver Velvet, Club club, White Australian, Little Club and White Winter Besides this there was White Russian rye in head and also threshed, Pearl Millet, German barley and a large bunch of the headed stalks of a variety of canary seed There were also some splendid specimens of timothy hay, and a [illegible] one over one foot in length In this collection was one pear that weighed 2¼ pounds and eight other pears of almost the same size, besides several monstrous apples The entire collection was prepared by D D Prettyman of Salem, Oregon, and though no premium was offered for this display, the judges recommended that a special premium of $1[illegible] be given for this fine collection Any one who saw those specimens would easily be convinced that Oregon is a great state and has a glorious future before it

AMUSEMENTS

NEW MARKET —George C Miln will open his engagement at the New Market this evening as Richelieu the advance sales for which indicate a large house The performance this evening will virtually decide Mr Miln's fate in Portland expectation running high as to the gentleman's ability There is, however scarcely any doubt but that the tragedian will fully sustain the favorable opinions expressed by the eastern critics. He will be supported by Addie Plunkett William Lloyd, and a complete company of efficient Shakespearian artists

THE TIVOLI —"Mascotte" still holds the boards, being greeted last night with a packed house It is full of catching airs and pretty scenes, that are well handled by an excellent company The favorites received a number of encores and applause was frequent and hearty A large number of ladies and young people were present, many gentlemen being accompanied by their families

THE MECHANICS FAIR.

[illegible] previous years [illegible] of all busy [illegible] A new feature is the [illegible] of the band [illegible] [illegible] Few visitors [illegible] seen, but this week will bring them in large numbers In the art gallery [illegible] there is any space vacant This will yet be well filled,

From what it was to be seen Saturday night there is no question but the exhibition surpasses that of any previous year The 14th infantry gives more music than was ever presented and nothing is lost in quality The miniature lakes in the garden department are much admired and the fish crawfish, turtles, etc., placed therein attracted much attention

Yesterday the quiet which prevailed in the building emboldened the blinking owl, which has his perch over the grotto, to go on a tour of exploration through the building It caused some little trouble to secure him and return him to his station The huge crawfish too, tiring of their new quarters or becoming hungry, crawled out on the floor and promenaded up and down the garden walks, snapping their claws viciously at any one who approached them The large pike appeared pretty well satisfied but evidently thought the bottom of the pond was too near the[illegible]

All old residents of the northwest have heard stories about streams in which the salmon were so plentiful that it was difficult to drive a team across Mr H B Borthwick of the Upper Cascades, states that he has often heard these stories but never saw an example [illegible] a few days since when he attempted to ride across Wind river a few miles above the Cascades The [illegible] was literally alive with salmon of different kinds so close together that at every step his horse's legs struck against them and he had considerable difficulty in urging the animal across A short distance above the ford was a [illegible] feet, which has stopped the progress of the fish and probably accounts for their being collected in such large numbers Fish have [illegible] on account of the obstruction having been placed [illegible] [illegible]

AN INCENDIARY CONFESSES.

R C Brown Tells how he Fired Two Buildings

He Gives an Oregonian Reporter the Reasons for His Crime, and Relates how he was Suddenly Overcome with Remorse

About 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon R C Brown who was arrested at Kalama a few days since by Detective Simmons, charged with arson brought to Portland and lodged in the city jail sent for a reporter of THE OREGONIAN, saying that he wanted to make a full confession of the crime It will be remembered that about 3 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, September 24 (the same week of the Esmond and Coloma lock fires), Brown who was reported as having been awakened by a kicking horse, discovered fire in a stable on North Fifth street, between F and G, used as an old warehouse An alarm was raised and with the assistance of neighbors the fire was extinguished An hour or so later an incipient fire was discovered in the basement of Brown's residence only thirty feet from the stable Since that time Detectives Barry and Simmons have been gathering up scattered links of circumstantial until they had woven and complete chain It was never clear to them why Brown if he had set fire to the buildings, should have been the first to extinguish them Under the hope that a free confession would not damage his case before the courts, Brown resolved to confess and when the reporter presented himself, [illegible] his story with the remark "There [illegible] too many holds on me, and I might as well make a clean breast of the whole thing" He then gave the following account of the crime

"I used to keep a boarding house on North Fifth street but I couldn't make it pay My wife was sick all the time with malaria and I lost a child from the same trouble I wanted to get out [illegible] but I couldn't sell out. I had $[illegible] insurance on my furniture, but I didn't care so much for the money as I did to get out of the place First I fixed a fire under my own house but it went out as I supposed Then I went to the old stable, pulled off a board from the bottom so that it would swing, and went inside There was a can of oil in the center of the stable and one can had been taken away So I took the other can and some other oil that I had bought, scattered it over the floor near where the [illegible] was loose and then took some shavings and kindling and a small lamp and put them just inside the opening Then I poured some oil from the stable to my house I [illegible] the kindling so that the blaze would not spring up till I had got away fifteen or twenty rods I had just got in my own house when the lamp went off like a gun All of a sudden I thought 'For God, what have I done! May be I [illegible] up some horses and maybe some persons' Then I opened it at once and hollowed and woke the neighbors up I ran [illegible] water and I got the first bucketful on the fire

"I never thought of looking at the fire under my own house because I was sure it had gone out But about an hour after I had set the stable the hired girl in our house woke up, as her room was filled with smoke The fire was in the basement under her room"

Brown's story bears the impress of truth That [illegible] he has to raise the alarm and arouse the neighbors is true beyond question The prisoner is 32 years old and looks like a man accustomed to hard work He is a Canadian by birth and has lived here about a year

Barry and Simmons will evidently not have to wait long for the reward offered by the insurance companies

SUICIDE AT THE CASCADE LOCKS

Harry W Abney a Young Man formerly of Portland Blows Out his Brains No Cause for the Deed

Harry W Abney, government time keeper at the Cascade Locks and deputy postmaster there, committed suicide on Thursday last He attended to his duties that morning as usual and afterward went to the residence of Mr and Mrs Hope, leaving a package of papers which belonged to them He then walked out and found Mr Hope and gave him a package of papers remarking "You'll find them all right" At noon Mr [illegible] the [illegible] keeper at the locks, wanted to pay off the employes, and needed Abney's assistance He was nowhere to be found, and it was thought that he might have gone on board the government boat lying at the [illegible] When it was found that he was not there his friends became alarmed, and a search was organized and kept up till about midnight, when no traces of the missing man having been found, it was abandoned Friday morning the search was renewed by two parties, under charge of Lieutenant Young and Captain [illegible] About [illegible] o'clock P M in a wild secluded spot up a deep ravine, two miles below the locks, the dead body of Abney was found a revolver grasped in one hand Near by was a piece of paper on which was written "I am tired of life Tend my affairs [illegible] I am found, with Mr Davis"

A little blood on the lips was the only sign of how death had been caused It appears that he had placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth the ball entering the brain and killing him instantly

No reason can be assigned for the rash act Mr Abney was highly respected and trusted and [illegible] [illegible] He was a graduate of [illegible] His [illegible] Fort Omaha, Nebraska [illegible]

[illegible] of Wasco county held an inquest yesterday and the remains will be brought to this city for burial to-day or to-morrow

MONDAY MORNING OCTOBER 13, 1884

COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, Oct 11

For two days past this section has been visited by a steady downpour of rain interfering with all out-door work and to some extent with business. Until this morning no rain had been reported from the eastern section. Last night rain fell at Dayton Walla Walla and points beyond and also this side of Celilo. This has not greatly affected the produce movement as sellers close to railways have been able to deliver promptly. Off from the best routes of travel the roads must soon be in a poor condition for hauling. During the week freight began arriving by train from Tacoma, and considerable has passed through without breaking bulk. The chief movement is in hops and salmon the former going to Chicago New York and Milwaukee and the latter through to Canada. A better market obtained for wheat, buyers purchasing more and paying better prices. The outlook for this cereal is for a continuation of present prices being paid for Walla Walla and possibly less for valley. Shippers favor the former seeming to fear that valley qualities will prove off grade. Because of this they hesitate to ship freely of it and as late offerings have shown some discolor they will not pay up. This is a business matter with exporters for they are in a position to know which sort is preferable for shipping and will handle that which promises the best returns. The talk about discoloration has been pronounced a scare. If it was in fact operators on the spot would before this have found it out. The press has been censured for giving publicity to the reports. In this matter the press is not to blame. Nothing has been stated that was not warranted by facts at hand. Any holding back of the exact condition of the grain would have a more depressing effect later on and in the end prove more hurtful not only to this year's crop but to that of next year. It is better to allow exceptions to pass as exceptions rather than let the foreign buyer labor under the impression that the valley frequently meets with the disadvantage now had. Cargoes can be sold on samples forwarded or as good average quality valley when samples are sent on. The only effect will be to cause grain to be sold on its merits and not on any previous year's grade. Such procedure has more than once affected values of Pacific coast wheat. California went through the experience and found that each year's crop must be separately graded for sale. It is purely a matter of business that Oregon should be graded and that the grower of choice wheat have value received for his product. General trade has ruled quiet for some weeks and there is no indication of marked improvement.

The State of California took out 500 cs salmon of [illegible] brand.

Latest Honolulu dates report from the appearance of the rice fields near Honolulu it may be predicted that the crop now nearly ripe will be a large one. The war between France and China will probably advance the price of this important cereal and insure the growers good returns for their labor.

Beadle & Co lumber merchants of San Francisco have filed their assignment for the benefit of creditors to B F Tuttle and Samuel Soule. Their liabilities are $84 745 9[illegible] mostly owed in small sums and their assets are valued at $9[illegible] 185 71 not including some book accounts and other property of doubtful value.

Overland receipts include 6 cs [illegible] hams 6 cs bacon 20 sks seed 150 hf bxs candles 3 bbls meal [illegible] cs cigars 1 cs cigarettes 68 pkgs tobacco, 150 cs coal oil 40 bxs nails.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours [illegible] ctls wheat 720 bbls flour 316 ctls oats 761 ctls bran 1[illegible] ctls millstuff 501 sks potatoes 20 871 lbs hides [illegible]8 cs eggs 1184 bxs fruit 60 pkgs butter, 197,850 lbs hops 395 bbls lime. Also 6 898 ctls wheat 1 07 lbs hides 11,280 lbs wool 9 pkgs butter 4110 lbs hops from the eastern section.

FREIGHTS—Disengaged tonnage consists of two wooden and three iron vessels. Iron holds at £[illegible] 6d and above which is rather beyond the views of shippers who wish to operate. The Mary A Troop was chartered through San Francisco parties. Negotiations were on for the Cyprus at the same figure but are now understood to be off. The market cannot be said to show any change, although some claim it is weaker. This is probably because there is so little doing for owners exhibit no weakening spirit. In the presence of a slack demand tonnage cannot be regarded as light. At San Francisco recent business would indicate an irregular market with more distinction given specific destinations.

WHEAT—Walla Walla is quoted at $1 02½@1 05, and firm with good inquiry. Valley has sold up to $1 15 for desirable parcels, and limits are out at this. There is manifest a disposition on the part of several large buyers to reduce limits to $1 1[illegible] and this may possibly be done on Monday next. The explanation is that there is not ten cents difference between the two qualities for shipment and that $1 1[illegible] is not justified. Competition was mainly instrumental in forcing up values and that is now lagging. Shippers are paying better prices for wheat than they were expected to yet they are doing a much safer business than was done last year and by close figuring may be able to retrieve a portion of last season's losses. [illegible] freights threatened to again catch them but there are now very few vessels chartered ahead at rates beyond current quotations and the forecast [illegible] is supposed to have reached lowest values. There are in port four vessels to be loaded, and these doubtless have cargoes provided some shippers being well supplied against future needs. The [illegible] pressure is thus accounted for [illegible].

SHIPPING NOTES

The State of California reached San Francisco at 9 15 A M

The Clarence S Bement came up at noon and docked at Albina.

The Osaka left down river at 10 A M with a full cargo of wheat.

A heavy southeaster at Port Townsend last Tuesday demolished not less than fifty feet of the sea wall near the bonded warehouse. The schooner Corona and Haw bark Augusta dragged anchor but were kept from going ashore by dropping all anchors.

The schooner City of Napa which recently went ashore at Port Blacklock on the southern Oregon coast had not been floated at last advices.

The total value of lumber shipped foreign from Puget Sound during September was $61,181

A new schooner named the Lizzie Prien was launched by Capt Holden at Parkersburg September 27

Schooners are now carrying coal from Coos bay to San Francisco for $3 per ton and lumber at $3 50 per thousand

The schooner Nora Harkins left Honolulu about September 18 for Kealia. In passing Anahola she drifted close in shore and was saved by the timely appearance of the steamer James Makee, which towed her out of danger

The Br bark Dunvegan 786 tons now on the way to Royal Roads from Valparaiso will come to this port for wheat loading.

The Br bark Ullock 779 tons comes to this port from Newcastle N S W

The Br bk Clan Ferguson, 779 tons, is reported en route from Buenos Ayres

The Kate F Troop goes to Antwerp, direct with 38 702 ctls wheat, valued at $42,900, shipped by C Caesar & Co

The Osaka has cleared for Queenstown or Falmouth, with 16,487 cts wheat, valued at $18,[illegible] shipped by Meyer, Wilson & Co

The Br wooden bark Cyprus, 1091 tons, has been chartered for wheat loading by Balfour Guthrie & Co through San Francisco brokers. She is supposed to receive 43s 3d or a fraction less than paid the Mary A Troop

SUNDAY, Oct 12

The Br bark Queen of Cambria, 86[illegible] tons crossed in to-day. She comes from Valparaiso in ballast to Simson Church & Co

The Jupiter, grain laden crossed out to day

THE CAMPAIGN.

Blaine Addresses the Miners of the Hocking Valley.

LOGAN REPLIES TO HENDRICKS

Butler Makes a Speech at Philadelphia—The Democrats Hold a Big Demonstration in Ohio—Political Points

From The Sunday Oregonian

WILLISTON, Ohio October 11—At 9 o'clock Mr Blaine left Ironton to go up through the Hocking valley. Workmen in the nail mills cheered as he passed. At Oak Hill there was a considerable crowd, composed largely of workingmen, beside the track. They had erected a platform of pig iron on which Mr Blaine stood. He began his brief speech by saying

"I stand on the same platform on which I stood in congress for twenty years, the platform which enables iron to be made in our own country instead of in England"

The remainder of the speech was devoted to the bearing of tariff on the iron industry

ATHENS, O, Oct 11—At Jackson there was a very large gathering of similar composition to that at Oak Hill. Mr Blaine spoke a few words about his interest in coal lands and bearing upon coal and iron. His remarks were favorably received, and as the train moved off, the people cheered him repeatedly.

HE ADDRESSES THE MINERS.

LANCASTER, Ohio, Oct. 11—At Nelsonville, the center of the mining district in the Hocking valley, Blaine made the following speech.

If I am at home anywhere it is in a coal region. I was born and brought up in a coal region, in the valley of the Monongahela, and I know something about coal. I have been an owner of coal lands nearly all my adult life, and the greater part of what little property I have is in this work is in coal lands. I have also been, to some extent, engaged in mining coal. I am an interested stockholder and director of a company in West Virginia. I have had twenty-nine years' experience in connection with the coal industry, and I count it a piece of remarkable good fortune that neither myself nor any of the companies with which I have been connected has ever had a strike, a dispute or a quarrel of any kind with any man. ("Good! good!" and cheers) Further, I have to say that during the last eighteen months the company I am connected with has been able to pay an average of about $60 per month to every one of the men engaged. ["Good, good!"] You see, therefore, that I am not talking about a subject I do not understand but while I acknowledge I am owner of coal lands in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, I am kindly assured by a number of democrats in Ohio that I own also a large tract of coal lands in the Hocking valley [Laughter] Now, I think when a man has property attributed to him which he protests he does not own, and when the other parties insist that he does own it, they ought to be compelled by law to make it good to him [Laughter and cheers] They say that I am a large holder in the Hocking valley syndicate, I say that I do not own a single share. They say again that I dare not let them come into court and make the ownership good to me ["Good!"] If I could bring them into court on that issue, and under the rules suggested, I would bankrupt a great many democratic editors and speakers, who insist that I own property that I never did own [Laughter and cheers.]

WHY DESERT PROTECTION

I understand that the miners in this region have had some trouble with the operators, and other political opponents say that I am one of the owners. I said awhile ago that I had never had any trouble with the men employed in the mines with which I am interested, and never expect to have any, because if I cannot continue the business without difficulties of that kind I shall abandon it. [Cheers]. I think there is no disagreement that arises between the employer and the men he employs that ought not be settled by a fair, impartial arbitration, and I think the man who is not willing to submit such a matter to arbitration ought to explain to the public why he is unwilling to do so. But because you are in temporary trouble why should you turn your backs upon the great protective system which has for twenty years improved and secured the development of your valley? Are you going to remedy your troubles in that way? Because you can't have a high tide of prosperity all the time do you therefore say that you will have a low tide of adversity ["That's it"] In this world we have to take a little but of lean with the fat [Laughter] You cannot have a stream flow down its bed without an eddy now and then you cannot have the flood tide of the ocean without the corresponding ebb. These occasional disturbances of the overflow of prosperity seem to be inevitable. You want to get rid of them, of course, but the parties concerned should deal with each other in a patient and conciliatory spirit, and in your anxiety for a remedy for these passing troubles you should not think of tearing away the very foundation on which the prosperity of your state and of your country rests [Cheers] I appeal to you as workingmen, as miners, because if the protective tariff is not good for the coal and iron interest industries it is not good for anything if it don't develop these it does not develop anything and if the protective tariff were repealed to-morrow these hills would be again wrapped in the silence of desolation in which they rested during the twenty five years that preceded the enactment of the protective tariff. But if, on the other hand, the protective tariff is maintained, I have full faith that your troubles will soon be adjusted, and that a new era of prosperity will dawn upon it [Renewed cheers

A QUESTION ANSWERED

A miner—May I ask, Mr Blaine, if you are interested in the Union furnace?

Mr Blaine—No, no to the extent of a single penny. I will make it stronger than that I never owned an interest in any iron furnace in Ohio or anywhere else in the civilized world [Cheers] I never was engaged in the iron business at all, but I have been engaged in the coal business, and a large proportion of the property I own is invested in coal to-day. I am interested with you in this matter. If the coal business breaks down in Ohio it cannot be maintained in Pennsylvania or West Virginia. We all stand or fall together. When they were about to sign the Declaration of Independence some one said to old D Witherspoon "Well we must hang together" "Yes," said he, "If we do not, George the Third will see to it that we hang separately" [Laughter and cheers] So, my friends engaged in the coal industry, if we do not stand together we shall fall together [Cheers] I thank you for the very kind reception you have given me, and I leave you in the hope and the expectation that we shall soon have better times for the mining interests throughout the whole United States [Renewed cheering]

At Logan, a town also in the mining district, there was a very large crowd, who cheered Blaine's remarks enthusiastically

In the evening, at Lancaster, he was escorted to the house of his cousin, Judge P B Ewing, and later to a meeting held in his honor. He made a speech devoted largely to reminiscences of his schoolboy days in Lancaster, but concluding with an appeal to the republicans of Ohio to do their duty on Tuesday next

LOGAN AT CINCINNATI

He Replies to Hendricks' Speech of Friday Night at the same Place.

CINCINNATI, Oct 11—Logan reached this city in the afternoon and was met at the depot by a body of 400 veteran soldiers, who, with a band, escorted the general to his hotel. Upon arrival there the square was quickly filled with a dense crowd to whom Logan appeared and made a brief address, amid loud applause

At night he was escorted to Music hall, where an audience that filled the whole house was waiting. Many ladies were present. At the appearance of Logan at the main entrance every person rose to their feet, cheering to the full capacity of their voices, and waving hats, handkerchiefs and canes in the air. This continued fully ten minutes and until the escorting committee had been seated, when quiet was restored by the glee club singing

General Noyes called the meeting to order, and announced General Hickenlooper, chairman. The latter introduced Logan, referring to their service together during the war, and especially to Logan's brilliant services at the battle of Atlanta, when he succeeded McPherson in command of the Army of the Tennessee. Another scene of wild uproar and cheering from the 7000 people in the hall followed Logan's appearance to speak. When the tumult ceased Logan, with evidently a worn voice, begged for quiet, saying this would be the fourth address he had made to-day, and he could not hope to be heard unless quiet was maintained. He then went directly into an answer of Hendricks' speech of the night before, by asking if his hearers thought there should be a change by turning out the republican party because, when the [illegible] the nation was threatened [illegible] party [illegible] that power [illegible] the government to maintain its existence, and that the power should [illegible] exercised [illegible]. He [illegible] whether [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] American [illegible] increasing the wealth of the country [illegible] $[illegible],000,000 [illegible]

Referring to Hendricks' assertion [illegible] of the rights of American citizens abroad, he [illegible] forgot to say that [illegible] democratic [illegible] president [illegible] was [illegible] refusing the [illegible] on the subject. It was left to [illegible] con-gress to enact a law, which is now recognized by the leading foreign powers, by a treaty that naturalized citizens of this country are entitled to protection abroad

He hesitated to name the acts of the democratic party to show why there should not be a change, and then took up the subject of the tariff making the assertion that Hendricks' speech was an open declaration for free trade. He was bitter against Hendricks for trying to array the Germans against Blaine

Referring to Bayard's insinuation that the republicans were about to buy votes in Ohio, he said it came with bad grace from a man from the south to talk to men of Ohio about a fair ballot, when it was known that if democratic bands and shotguns could be kept off the ballot box in the south they could not carry seven states

He closed with an appeal for the support of the republican state and congressional tickets, and was followed by Dollimer of Iowa and others.

BUTLER AT PHILADELPHIA

He Calmly Picks Up a Large Tin Spoon Dropped From the Gallery.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 11—General Butler arrived this evening under escort of a committee of the people's party, by many of whom he was met at Harrisburg. He was taken in a carriage to the hotel, where a large audience awaited him. The meeting in the meantime was addressed by two other speakers, but both were frequently interrupted by calls for Butler, and repeated intimations that the audience came there to see Butler only. After sundry manifestations of impatience Butler appeared on the stage. At the same moment a procession of his supporters, headed by a band of music, entered the hall.

General Butler again came forward to speak, when a large tin spoon, thrown by some one in the gallery, fell at his feet. Apparently wholly undisturbed, he picked up the spoon, and advancing with it in his hand, said "My friends and fellow citizens—It is my first and most grateful duty to thank you for this very kind and, may I add, enthusiastic greeting. Having done that, my next duty is to present the only argument of the Cleveland party" Here the general held up the spoon, and then, contemptuously throwing it aside, continued "Now, as Cleveland men have begun and finished the entire work of a Cleveland meeting, won't they please adjourn, go home and let us carry on our own meeting" [Cries of "go on" and applause]

After requesting his hearers to indulge as little as possible in applause, in order to economize time, he said the platform of the people's party, which was as short as the Cleveland argument, was simply this Equal powers, equal rights, equal privileges, equal burdens for all men under the law. It was a platform to live by, and unless the pending issues were settled, constitutionally, it would be the platform for the laboring men of the country to die by, if it became necessary for them to enforce their rights with might. General Butler went on to say that the monopolists, while cutting down wages on one hand, were raising the price of the necessaries of life on the other

POLITICAL POINTS.

HENDRICKS AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Oct 11—Hendricks arrived from Cincinnati this afternoon. He was received at the depot and escorted to the hotel by the Young Men's Central Democratic club, and a large reception committee. This evening there was one of the greatest political demonstrations ever held in Ohio. At the mass meeting in Monumental park there was speaking from two stands, by Governor Hendricks, Senator Bayard, Governor Hubbard of Texas, Colonel John R Fellows of New York, Hon H B Payne, Senator Pendleton and others. General W S Rosecrans presided at one of the stands and Congressman Foran at the other. Following the speeches was the largest procession of torchbearers ever seen in this section. It is estimated there were 10,000 to 15,000 in line, horse and foot, including the democratic legion of Buffalo, 800 strong. The park was gorgeously illuminated. The demonstration closed with a magnificent display of fireworks. Excursions came in over every line of railway leading to the city. Governor Hendricks was serenaded to-night by the Buffalo legion

MORMONS TO THE RESCUE

NEW YORK, Oct 11—The national republican committee is in receipt of information from a source they consider trustworthy, that the Mormon church in Utah decided, soon after the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks was made, to take a hand in the pending canvass by giving aid of a substantial character to the democratic ticket. Information is to the effect that, at a council of the Mormon church, held at Salt Lake city it was voted to give to the national democratic committee one-tenth of the church tithings, to be used in aiding the election of Cleveland, and, if possible, a majority of both houses of congress. In return for this contribution the Mormon council secured a promise from the democratic committee that in the event of success Utah shall be admitted to the union as a state. As an additional inducement for Utah's admission the council promised that she will, as a democratic state, add two democrats to the United States senate

CHINESE CHILDREN EXCLUDED FROM SCHOOLS

SAN FRANCISCO Oct 11—[Special]—The state superintendent of schools has again affirmed his decision prohibiting Chinese children from attending the public schools. After repeating his former expressions, Superintendent Welker says "It is a question, in my mind, whether a federal court has the power to compel the state of California to undergo the expense of educating the children of Chinese, when the influence of such foreign residents is declared by the constitution to be dangerous to the well being of the state [illegible] [illegible] The Chinese in this city pay $1 [illegible] school tax [illegible] [illegible] all the [illegible]

Keely Gives a Successful Exhibition of His Motor.

Three Horses Fall in a Race at Jerome Park War in Passenger Rates from Chicago to the West—Etc

From The Sunday Oregonian

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11—[Special.]—Papers this morning announce the most successful exhibition of the Keely motor yet given. The Times says "The exhibition included experiments in firing projectiles from the Keely gun, the lifting of weights by pressure of vaporized ether and the operation of one of the smaller vibratory engines. After charging the generator with less than one pint of water, which Keely injected into the machine from his mouth, the inventor turned several levers, struck a chord to put the vibrators in tune, and announced that he had produced motive power sufficient for the evening's work. The generator was not charged again during the entire exhibition. He first transmitted vapor from the receiver in such a way as to act upon a one-inch plunger, set in a steel cylinder, and supporting a powerful lever, weighted with 682 pounds of iron. Simple computations showed that a power of nearly 12,000 pounds was required to lift the weight which hung from the long lever. The instant Keely made his first expulsion into the small copper tube connected with the cylinder the plunger was seen to rise, carrying with it the enormous weight pendant from the long arm of the lever. The entertainment was concluded with an exhibition of a fifteen-horse power vibratory engine, set up in the room above the ground floor. Vapor was introduced from the generator by a copper tube, passing through a hole in the flooring. Power was still furnished by the original mouthful of water injected into the machine by the inventor. Early in the evening visitors crowded around the simple looking contrivance with the most intense interest. When Keely turned the lever there was a rustling sound, and in a moment the wheel began to revolve. It continued at a uniform rate of revolution for half an hour, and the combined power of the strongest muscle in the audience and the heaviest levers failed to retard the progress of the little wheel. Then Keely reversed the wheel, stopped it, wiped the perspiration from his brow and smiled proudly, while the gentlemen joined in three hearty cheers and a 'tiger' for what they regarded the most complete exhibition the inventor has yet vouchsafed his giant allies"

THE GRAIN TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct 11—The Commercial Bulletin says "In the grain trade the week has been characterized by inactivity. Wheat supplies have accumulated at interior points, as the effect of the advance in prices which took place ten days ago. The movement to the seaboard has been large, and promises to be so until supplies now en route arrive. Supplies have been increased by large sales of stuff to arrive. Export clearances continue small. It was not until late last night that any improvement in buying for export was reported"

ENGLAND SENDS AN ULTIMATUM TO THE BOERS

LONDON, Oct 11—An ultimatum has been sent to the Transvaal government by Great Britain. It alleges that repeated violations of the treaty and acts of violence have been committed by Boers beyond the boundary lines of the Transvaal country, and it demands of the Transvaal government due satisfaction for these acts, repression of Boer filibusters, and a thorough observance of the articles of the last convention entered into by both countries. It is reported the British war office is already preparing an expedition of 8000 into South Africa. The withdrawal of the proclamation annexing the Montsioa territory is not expected as long as the position of affairs, as the Boers continue to hold a grip upon the lands

JAY'S RECEPTION IN LONDON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—[Special]—The Herald's cable special gives an account of the reception of Mr Jay, president of the Wabash road by the London bondholders. It says His apologetic speech was often interrupted. At times there was an uproar, and cries of "Gould's man," and "Go, go," and finally Jay sat down [illegible] Russell Roberts, barrister, severely criticised Jay. There were numerous cheers when he termed Jay Gould an arch enemy, and referred to Mr Tinny spoke, calling Jay the [illegible] of Gould, and saying this plan was a well [illegible] plot of [illegible]

RUSSIAN VS. AMERICAN PETROLEUM

LONDON, Oct 11—[Special]—The Times says "Russia is not only driving American petroleum from Russia, but has also been selling crude oil to Austrian refiners, and making a determined effort to obtain a foothold in Eastern Germany. The first train of German car tanks, containing Russian petroleum, lately arrived at Grudenz on the frontier. It is estimated that petroleum by this route will be one shilling per fifty kilolitres cheaper in the Berlin market than American oil

CANADA

HEAVY EXPLOSION

QUEBEC, Oct 11.—About one o'clock this afternoon an explosion occurred at the new parliament buildings, destroying a considerable portion of the masonry and windows of the new building which is just being roofed in. The explosion at first was supposed to be the boiler of the engine used for hoisting material, but this proved to be not the case. Neither can it be attributed to gas. The general impression appears to be that the explosion was caused by dynamite, but as there is none of this ingredient used about the works the mystery is how it occurred. An investigation is now being held. Workmen all being away at dinner, nobody but one man was injured, and he escaped with a slight cut from a piece of stone. The shock was very severe all over the city. Windows of houses in the vicinity of the explosion were badly shattered

DR. C. McLANE'S

Celebrated Liver Pills

In offering to the public Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills, as a remedy for Liver and Bilious Complaints we presume no apology will be needed. The great prevalence of Liver Complaint and Bilious Diseases of all kinds throughout the United States and particularly in the West and South where, in the majority of cases, the patient is not within the reach of a regular physician, requires that some remedy should be provided that would not in the least impair the constitution, and yet be safe and effectual. That such is the character of Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, there can be no doubt. The great success which has invariably attended their use will, we think, be sufficient to convince the most incredulous. It has been our sincere wish that these Pills should be fairly tested, and stand or fall by the effects produced. That they have been so tested and that the result has been in every respect favorable, we call tens of thousands to witness who have experienced their beneficial effects.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS

are not held forth or recommended, (like most of the popular medicines of the day), as universal cure-alls, but simply as a specific for Liver Complaints and those symptoms connected with a deranged state of that organ
